

Web Design

We specialize in the creation and hosting of content managed websites. This means a website that includes a web-based editor allowing you, the customer, to add new content and modify existing content without additional expense. Of course, this is optional. We will also provide website maintenance at your request.

Content management also means that your website can include "active" content rather easily. Active content is information that changes according to the needs of the visitor without your intervention. Many modules are ready to be customized and plugged into such a website. Here are some examples:

- Advertisement Banners (sell ad space, track views and clicks; expire after # views)
- Calendar (events expire automatically; latest events listing; repeating events)
- Chat Box (allow visitors to leave messages for each other on your website)
- File Repository (present downloads by category with name, description, rating, etc.)
- Forums (let your visitors or members discuss topics online)
- Guestbook (allow visitors to leave messages and rate your site)
- News Articles (keep history, rating and comments; most popular; latest)
- Newsflash (show a random news article on your website)
- Newsletter Manager (allow visitors to sign up for your newsletter; send from website)
- Photo Gallery (organize photos by thumbnail and category; rating and comments)
- Polls (ask questions on your site and tally responses; limit to one vote per visitor)
- Random Image (show a random image from a set of images on your site)
- Response Forms (have visitors fill out forms and submit them to you via email)
- RSS Feeds (show news feeds from other websites)
- Scrolling Newsflash (show news articles in a scrolling box)
- Today in History (show news articles from this day in history)
- Who's Online (show # of visitors and members currently visiting your site)
- Other modules can be found or created at your request...

An online store component may also be added to your site. The store not only gives your organization the ability to sell products online, it also provides searchable product listings, a shopping cart and optional online credit transactions. Secure certificate registration is included for the first year.

Costs are approximate and may vary with specifics of particular websites and individual needs. For exact pricing, contact us and ask for a custom quote! Your website can be broken into four parts:

- Design a new template to be the base for each of the site's web pages or modifying a pre-fabricated design to fit your organization.
- Install and customize additional modules.
- Optional store component.
- Create content pages from supplied text and images.

Included at no additional charge with every website we design:

- Hosting and domain registration for one year from initial domain registration
- Training on updating and adding new content
- Website statistics
- Favicon creation based on your logo or name
- Registration with major search engines
